Mount Shasta.

In the northern part of California, [illegible] the disappointed miner, and not [illegible] by the poet of the romantic Bohemian, has a region, which in [illegible] and variety of its mountain scenery, is suggestive of the marvelous shield of [illegible] of the Alps. Mount Blanc, the Jungfrau and the Matterhorn were all one [illegible] suggested to me as I caught a full view of the [illegible] peaks of Shasta, standing like a [illegible] at the gate of the rich Sacramento valley. Differing radically from the Yosemite in the character of its landscapes, it has everything to gain and little to lose by the comparison. Around its base, [illegible] watered and wooded, is some of the finest [illegible] pasture grounds of the Coast [illegible] while rising up to a height of 14,442 feet is one of the most remarkable [illegible] volcanic elevations now in existence.

The brilliant hues of the lava near the [illegible] made a sort of wild [illegible] of the [illegible] before us, the colors changing successively to a sombre gray, a dull earthy [illegible] and a dazzling white, as the eye sought the top, at which it seemed to be [illegible] grew weary of gazing. But a [illegible] word from the driver assured us that the [illegible] was approaching "Sissons." This is a station on the California and Oregon stage road, [illegible] miles north of Sacramento, [illegible] miles of which distance we had just stayed from Redding, on the California and Oregon branch of the Central Pacific Railway. It has an elevation of 3,500 feet above [illegible] at 11 [illegible] point of departure for the mountains. Sissons provides a [illegible] visitors, and a guide, the best on the coast, [illegible] for a trip of eight or nine days to the summit, and half of that period to traverse on foot, about forty miles of rough pathless. Make a trip before I leave the basement. I thought of Goethe's words: "Height enlarges but the steps that lead to them are steep."

The ride towards the top of the mountain is very beautiful, especially in the [illegible] of the year. The leaves of the aspen, willow, cottonwood, mahogany and [illegible] Gilead have lost their vivid green, [illegible] are [illegible] in the change, and it has [illegible] a rich delicate [illegible] of green and yellow, or [illegible] red. These exquisite hues, mingled with the lighter green of the pines, the bright clear green of the cedar, and the [illegible] white of the silver firs, give an attractive variety and a beautiful contrast of colors [illegible]. The [illegible] perfectly, [illegible] with golden and orange, and [illegible] to the slightest breath of wind, seem like [illegible] of gaudy leaves [illegible] in the light. The limbs of the aspen are smooth and glistening, and of a [illegible] hue, heavily [illegible] the [illegible] the clear, laughing brook, of the [illegible] mountain streamlets, the sugar pine [illegible] by its grace and dignity the other trees [illegible] strength, and the silver fir [illegible] for [illegible] which comes [illegible] and weather. Theodore Hayes, in Scribner's for August.

Some one notes that the [illegible] discovery in Egypt will add plausibility to Wendell Phillips's lecture on the "Lost Arts." It now appears that the smelting of iron was carried on in Egypt from the very earliest periods. Mr. Charles Vincent, in an English scientific journal, sets forth some new facts in reference to this subject. In the sepulchres of Thebes may be found delineations of butchers sharpening their knives on round bars of iron attached to their aprons. The blades of the knives are palpably blue, which fact proves that they were of steel, from the tomb of Rameses III. this color is used to indicate steel, bronze being represented by red. An English gentleman has recently discovered near the wells of Moses, by the Red Sea, the remains of an iron works so vast that they must have employed thousands of workmen. Near the works are to be found the ruins of a temple and of a barrack for the soldiers protecting or keeping in order the workmen. These works are supposed to be at least three thousand years old.

Items of vital statistics recently published in Europe are cited in confirmation of the generally received opinion that the duration of human life is at present greater than in past centuries. Thus, it is stated that in the city of Geneva, Switzerland, registers have been kept of the yearly average of human longevity since 1560. In that year it is given at twenty two years and six months. At present it is over forty years. The tables compiled by life assurance companies in England, and adopted in this country, are said to show a similar result. In the fourteenth century, the average annual mortality in the city of Paris was one in sixteen; it is now given as about one in thirty two. In all England, in 1690, the rate of mortality was one in thirty three; as now given, it is about one in forty two.

Dr. Kedzie, of the Michigan Agricultural College, gives the following account of the injurious action of salt on trees: "On the college grounds there formerly grew a fine, vigorous specimen of common sassafras apparently in perfect health. A quantity of strong brine was inadvertently thrown beneath this tree. Forthwith decay set in in the main branch, which, in a very short time, with the exception of a few manifest signs of decreasing vitality. # Newport Daily News.

MONDAY, AUGUST 4, 1873.

Our friends will confer a favor, by sending us facts of any matter of local interest which may come to their knowledge.

Correspondence concerning matters of public interest will be inserted, but we do not hold ourselves responsible for opinions expressed in such communications. All manuscript must be accompanied by the name and address of the writer.

It seems almost impossible to please the English republicans. They don't like the Queen because she is not ostentatious enough, and they are now abusing the Duke of Edinburgh, because he is too economical.

The New Orleans Herald states that real estate in that city has declined fifty per cent. since the President affirmed Kellogg to be the governor of Louisiana. That, if true, is a pretty tangible evidence of the unpopularity and mismanagement of the usurper.

Baron Von Eichdon protests against the divorce his wife, Madame Luren, obtained from him in New York. He says he knew nothing at all about the proceedings till the divorce was announced. He denies the allegations on which his wife secured the divorce, and has applied to the Supreme Court of New York for a reversal of the decree. He has also applied to a German court for a divorce from her.

The last presidential campaign was a pretty violent one, as its results indicate. After his New Haven cherries Gratz Brown didn't take a sufficiently active part in the struggle to produce any ill effects on himself, and Gen. Grant's iron constitution, and blessed freedom from nerves of any kind protected him from harm, but Mr. Greeley fell very soon after the results were declared, and now there seems to be little probability that Mr. Wilson will ever preside over the senate. His nerves were too severely tasked last year.

Spanish affairs are in hopeless confusion. Nobody knows what the real government is, and the mother country is in as complete anarchy as any of her South American daughters ever were. Part of the fleet has revolted and the government, that is, the republican government, has declared these vessels to be pirates. The insurgents ashore have sworn that if any foreign nation treats these vessels as pirates they will murder all the consuls in Spain. The German government has called a maritime congress to determine the rights of the men-of-war in question.

It is the fault of Protestantism, and its weak point in fighting other religions that it is without system, and depends too much on unreliable individual effort. The tendency among Protestants to drop all outward manifestations of piety in warm weather is one that ought to be condemned instead of condoned by the religious press. We therefore regret that the Church and State, in an article on "Summer Religion" asks, "What mortal can get up enthusiasm with the thermometer at ninety? He may aspire to sainthip never so ardently, but the weather is too much for him." If conscience won't work in warm weather what is the use of missions in India and Africa?

THE WATER SUPPLY.

The report of George H. Bishop, civil engineer, on the introduction of water into this city has just been issued. It is a remarkably brief, clear and intelligible document and ought to be carefully read and the tables it contains examined by every voter in this city and every one who has influence over a voter.

Before giving an abstract of Mr. Bishop's report on the three proposed sources of water, we wish to call attention to the analysis of our own well water as ascertained by Mr. Walter U. Hill, chemist at the Torpedo Station. This gentleman examined samples from three of our wells and found in each gallon of water solid matter to the amount of respectively 30.33 grains, 36.39 grains and 53.91 grains! In Charlestown, Massachusetts, the well water contains 26 grains of solid matter to the gallon, in Lynn 26½; in Fall River, 32; in Providence, 32.5-10; in Lowell, 39; in Hartford, 40½ and in New York 43¼.

To supply our city with water, three plans are proposed. First, the Green End plan, which consists of making a reservoir of that end of Easton's pond to serve the laundry and pumping the water out of Honeyman's Hill; second, the Lawton Valley plan, which also includes pumping works, and third, the Stafford Pond plan, which requires sixteen miles of pipe, but dispenses with pumping works. After discussing the comparative merits of each of these, Mr. Bishop proceeds to sum up the debit and credit account of each, as follows:

As respects the quantity of supply, Green End, Lawton Valley and Stafford Pond stand in order in which their names are here mentioned. The first may be relied on for a supply of 3,000,000 gallons a day; the second 2,500,000 and the third 1,750,000. In respect to quantity, the relation of the three supplies is rather different.

Stafford Pond leads off with impurities that may be marked for convenience' sake 28, Lawton Valley follows with 50, and Green End closes with 62. In the cost of construction and maintenance Green End has the advantage, its expense being represented by 43, Lawton's Valley by 49, and Stafford Pond by 69. In effectiveness Green End again has the advantage, being represented by 93, with Lawton's Valley, 80, and Stafford Pond 70.

Green End stands first in every respect except quality, in which respect it stands third. Lawton Valley is second in every comparison, and Stafford Pond is third in every respect except quality. In purity the water of Stafford Pond is wonderful, every gallon of it containing only 1.96 grains of solid matter. But the distance of the pond from the city; the cost of bringing the water in, and its amount and effectiveness as compared with the others, all are serious objections to this plan.

The Green End plan stands first in every comparison except in that of purity and in that it is good enough. Every gallon of 70,000 grains contains but 4.29 grains of solid matter. Mr. Bishop closes his report as follows:

"First on account of its affording the largest quantity at the least outlay. Second, its value in effectiveness as against conflagrations and all ordinary purposes. Third, its location, being less than two miles from the centre of the city, it is therefore always more accessible in case of accident or repairs. Fourth, its analysis presents no objectionable features, except as compared with the remarkably pure water of Stafford Pond, but compares favorably with water supplies generally.

I would therefore recommend the adoption of this plan, placing Lawton Valley plan second, Stafford Pond plan third."

We give below a table that will be examined by all with interest.

STATE MISCELLANY.

The steamer Canonicus took a large party numbering about six hundred which came from Woonsocket by special train to Block Island Thursday. There was a considerable addition from Providence, making the party quite as large, perhaps, as any which has been down before this season.

The day and trip proved very pleasant, although a heavy fog bank enveloped the boat most of the way from this city to Point Judith, where it lifted. The large company was successfully landed on the breakwater, and the several public houses were found amply prepared to satisfy the wants of the inner man.

From Hay to Pasture.

Stock at this season of the year require as much attention as in Midwinter. True, they will not eat so much hay, but if allowed to cater for themselves, as in the case in many instances, they will pick from early morn until late evening and with all of their industry obtain a very indifferent living. The consequence is they lose flesh, and in a week or two they become Spring poor, and the whole bountiful grass season is required to put the flesh on them, when by feeding a little at a time, but often, they will not fall away and when the pastures are good they will continue to thrive the whole season.—Farmer's Union.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Mr. Barbank at the Opera House tonight.

Michael Mahony was arrested on Saturday for revelling.

Steam-yacht, Peerless, is at anchor in the harbor.

Hon. George T. Curtis of New York, with two daughters is stopping at Mrs. Flagg's, Dixon street.

Rev. T. L. Murphy, of this city, preached at Grace church, Providence, yesterday.

State rooms for Stonington steamers and the drawing room cars are sold at John H. Greene's office, Commercial wharf.

—Rev. R. M. Hatfield of Cincinnati, and formerly of this place, preached at the First M. E. Church yesterday afternoon.

—Mr. L. Buchanan, the music composer of New York and Mr. Petri, of Steinway & Co., are stopping at Thisbell's, 19 Mill street.

The noon train from Boston was three quarters of an hour later today, delayed at Stoughton by an accident to the early train from Boston.

—A heavily silver plated ether has been presented to Capt. E. S. Hammond within a few days by a very modest gentleman of this city.

Everybody knows how dark and foggy it was Saturday evening, and many also know that the lanterns were not lighted. That deceiving moon was the cause of the latter.

—A row on Perry street Saturday evening and also one on Levin street near Bellevue avenue was indulged in to the great annoyance of the neighbors.

—We find that a great many of our citizens intend to avail themselves of the opportunity of attending the clam bake of the Baptist Society at Wickford, Wednesday.

—One of the new style large fans in use by the ladies, was recently taken for a side of a window blind. But on nearer approach the error was discovered.

At the meeting of the Narragansett Gun Club Saturday, arrangements satisfactory to the club and to Mr. Bryer, were made and the location of the sports will remain unchanged.

The champion billiard player of the world, Mr. Garnier, is in town and will give free exhibitions of his skill in billiards every afternoon and evening this week at the St. Denis billiard hall, Pelham street.

Three persons were baptized at the Point yesterday afternoon by Rev. E. P. Jones and eight were received into full membership by the same at the Thames street M. E. church.

There is trouble brewing with the wires of the Western Union Telegraph company, the New York wire being the only one that can be used. An operator has gone along the line to Fall River and the trouble will be remedied before night.

Rev. A. A. Wright, of the M. E. conference and formerly stationed at Little Compton was in town yesterday as the guest of James H. Taylor, Esq. He preached at the Bethel at 1:30 a. m. and was at the First M. E. church in the afternoon and evening.

The new route to the Vineyard via the Old Colony and New Bedford Railroads is announced in this paper. This has the advantage of close connections, short steam travel and facility for checking baggage to the point of destination. It is but just opened and is destined to be popular.

Newport has the largest Quaker meeting house, and the oldest Jewish synagogue of America, the oldest Baptist society, the first Methodist steeple ever built on the face of earth since the race of man, and a fair-sized number of saints.[New York Fun.

Sixty dollars is the price charged for pumping the station house cistern full of water recently. We wonder there will be some "fun" in getting that bill the much improper channel of the city government. It took one-half day to procure the bill.

Mr. Howard Smith of this city sails for Europe tomorrow morning in the Cunard steamer, Liberia, from Boston. Mr. Smith will be absent about five months and will visit England, Ireland, France and Germany. The trip is advised by his physician as he must be will return home in greatly improved health.

Complaint is made that the Union Congregational church is greatly disturbed Sunday evenings by a gang of half grown boys, who indulge in the sport of dancing, whistling, boxing, &c., in the vicinity of the church. Prompt action has been taken to prevent a repetition of the outrage.

—We saw something on the arrival of the White Mountain train, Saturday evening, which we never expected to see in Newport. It was this, that astonished us. There were more passengers on the train, than could be accommodated by carriages or hacks, and in a few did have to walk to procure conveyance from the depot.

"A tramp," footsore, weary and shockingly filthy, arrived at the station house last evening from Fall River, from which place he had started the same day. He states that he is a stone cutter by trade, and came here to resume work, but as there is a sufficiency of this class of laborers in town, he will be speedily remanded to the place whence he came.

We learn that the Sec and Baptist and the Thames street M. E. Church Sunday Schools have decided to go to Rocky Point upon their annual excursion, instead of to Oakland Beach as was originally intended. We also learn that partial arrangements had been made with the proprietors of Oakland Beach for the same.

A certain restaurant in this city was found open about twelve o'clock Sunday morning. A policeman was sent to the place and kindly informed the proprietor it was Sunday morning and that it was against the rules and ordinances of the city to do so he was doing. The place was immediately closed and it is proposed to keep better hours in the future.

Owing to the dense fog Saturday evening the steamer Newport did not arrive from Providence with her party of moonlight excursionists until 11 o'clock. The fog did not clear up and it was deemed imprudent to start for home; so all hands made themselves as comfortable as possible until about 6:30 a. m., when it was light enough to start. The inconvenience of the excursionists can be imagined, yet the action of her captain in remaining can but receive the approval of everybody, and more especially in these days of accidents to steam as well as sailing vessels.

—Bellevue avenue presented on Saturday a display of turnouts, which in Newport has never been surpassed in number or elegance. Who says this is a poor season?

—An exchange says of Mr. Barbank, who is to read tonight, speaking of his private recitations here: "He made aristocratic teams to flow and aristocratic sides to shake, and if he can thus move fastidious Newport his success on the rostrum the coming winter is sure."

—The city has been unusually full of strangers within the past three days and the hotels have been obliged to put forth every effort to meet their wants. At least two hundred and fifty people came in the New York boat Sunday morning and as many more came Saturday by the other New York routes.

The steam ferry boat, Jamestown, now leaves the old ferry landing, rear of Swinburne, Peckham & Co.'s mill, at the hours announced in the published time table. The enterprise is destined to succeed, as it offers advantages never before given to the public and such as the people will appreciate.

—The programme for the open air concert on the avenue Saturday was an excellent one, including two solos, and several fine selections from our best operas. The lot was half full of carriages, the green turf making no sound under the horses feet, and every listener declared this to be one of the pleasantest features of our season.

—A number of the crew of the U. S. frigate, Constellation, have left the ship, and, up to this date, have failed to return and bid adieu to friendships there made. The sum of $40.00 is paid by Uncle Sam for a revisit from them, and such being the case four have been induced by some of our efficient policemen to return to his employ until they are released from further service in a more legal way.

The Ocean House hop Saturday night was a brilliant affair, the halls and parlors being crowded with cottagers and guests. The "middles" from the Constellation were present, and, in spite of the close warm evening, danced for a couple of hours. Most of the ladies were in walking costume or dent trained home dress. These receptions being informal gatherings at which full dress would be out of place.

The excursion yesterday, made by the steamer Day Star, was a very remarkably quiet affair. Everybody, however, is aware that the News has always been opposed to Sunday excursions on account of the principle of the matter and of the usual noise and disturbance incident to such occasions. From careful and impartial observations from our police authorities our reporter learns that the day was one of unusual quiet and good order, and that not one case of drunkenness was noticed by them or reported at headquarters. The excursionists numbered about five hundred, and returned at half past five o'clock, p. m.

TEMPERANCE RALLY. The fourth New England Mass Temperance meeting will convene at Rocky Point tomorrow, as already announced in these columns. His Excellency Governor Howard will preside, and a large number of invited guests and a host of good speakers are expected to be present. The popular American Brass Band of Providence has been engaged and Spinning will be there.

The Vital Drain.

It is necessary to the health of the body that all exhausted and effete particles should be carried off by the excretory organs, and it is equally necessary that the waste matter thus expelled should be replaced by new elements derived from digested and assimilated food. It is evident, therefore, that good digestion and perfect assimilation are essential to healthy vigor; and as it is because Hostetter's Stomach Bitters powerfully assist those processes, that it is regarded by the intelligent classes, whose opinions are founded on observation, as the only absolute specific for dyspepsia and its attendant ills, at present known. When the system, either from constitutional causes, overwork, excess, anxiety, or actual disease, is in an unnaturally relaxed condition, something more than its characteristic particles passes through the pores. Vitality leaks through these vestiges. Elements which should remain in the blood and enrich it are excluded, and that fluid becomes thin watery and incapable of removing the waste fluids of the body as fast as they decay. The consequences are emaciation, debility, nervousness, loss of spirits, and a retardation, perhaps a rapid decline of all powers of life. It is in cases like these that the restorative properties of Hostetter's Bitters are most conspicuous. The first tonic dose sometimes produces a change in the feelings and aspect of the invalid that is perfectly astonishing, and by a persevering use of this vegetable cordial the blood is purified, the vital drain is arrested, perhaps a rapid decline of all powers of life. The first tonic dose sometimes produces a change in the feelings and aspect of the invalid that is perfectly astonishing, and by a persevering use of this vegetable cordial the blood is purified, the vital drain is arrested, the strength restored, the flesh restored, the constitution renovated, and the brain relieved of the cloud that obscured it.

Over Exertion, either of body or mind, produces debility and disease. The usual remedy is to take some stimulant, the effect of which is the same as giving a tired horse the whip instead of oats. The true way to fortify the system with a permanent tone, like the Peruvian bark, is to build up blood, which gives strength and vigor to the whole system.

See, the conquering hero comes; his name is Williams' Extract Jamaica Ginger.

For Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits and General Debility, in their various forms, Pure Old Peruvian Bark of Calisaya, made by Crosby, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists, is the best and most invigorating tonic. It purifies and invigorates from fever or other sickness it has no equal. It taken during the season it prevents fever and ague and other malarious fevers. Jy29-3w

PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES ON THE FACE.—In this condition of the skin, the Vapor Bath is the best remedy, as it acts directly upon the cause. It cleanses and purifies the blood, thereby causing humors of all kinds to disappear.

GENERAL NEWS.

From New York.

NEW YORK, August 2.—Fred Monks, a young German, eloped with the young wife of his uncle, Charles H. Monks, and went to live in Ludlow street. Charles, discovering their whereabouts, called on them. On entering the room he was met by his wife, who held a pistol in her hands threatening death if her husband interfered. In the struggle for the pistol, it went off, the ball passing through the fleshy part of her breast. Fred Monks then fired his pistol into his breast and died instantly.

TURKEY.

In response to inquiries announcing that the Sublime Porte had taken measures to reorganize and increase its military force, and had ordered five hundred Krupp guns, the Turkish minister Bheque Bey, now in New York, says he sees no evidence in it of warlike intention, as the other European governments are keeping pace with the progress of the age, in the character of their armament. It behooved the Porte to act with equal wisdom, for the very purpose of securing peace. The Turkish government has every reason to desire peace. The changes in the army are such as take place annually. A large proportion of the present armament he explained, is old fashioned and unfit to compare with the more modern patterns of military material, and it is the intention of the Porte to keep pace with the other nations of Europe.

From Washington.

THE VIRGINIUS.

The Department of State has instructed the American consulate at Kingston, Jamaica, to collect from the Virginius the three months extra pay claimed by the crew of that vessel who were discharged at that port. It is claimed that this action of the State recognizes the Virginius as an American vessel and entitled to the protection of the government.

WASHINGTON, August 2.—Two million nine hundred and thirty-six thousand dollars' worth of postage stamps, stamped envelopes and postal cards were issued from the stamp division of the Post Office Department during July, to different departments. Over two and a half millions were also issued to postmasters for sale to the public.

Miscellaneous.

PORTLAND, Oregon, August 2.—A most destructive fire broke out at 1 o'clock this morning. Twelve blocks are now in flames and the fire is still spreading. The fire department of Vancouver, Oregon City and Salem, are on their way here. The water supply is failing. The fire commenced in the Metropolitan Hotel. Nearly all the city bounded by Yamhill street on the north, on the west by Second, Columbia street on the south and the river on the east, is in flames.

As fast as it was suppressed in one direction it broke out in another, while new fires, supposed to be the work of incendiaries, were continually being discovered, so that the fires only ceased for want of material. Among the losses are two engine houses, two sash factories, three foundries, four mills, five hotels, one hundred stores and two hundred and fifty dwellings. One hundred and fifty homeless families are encamped in the public parks. The loss is estimated at $1,500,000, on which there was an insurance of $200,000. Foreign companies lose heavily. Everything is in confusion, and the police and national guard are on duty around the burnt district. There were two alarms of fire this afternoon, which caused but little loss.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—A report was filed yesterday in the United States Circuit Court in the celebrated case against the Chicago and Northwestern R. R. in a suit for the infringement of the Tanner patent railroad brake. The report awards the plaintiff the sum of $93,658 as damages. This is a test case, and if supported, the amount of damages to accrue to the claimants from the various railroads of the country will be enormous.

PORTLAND, Oregon, August 3.—The fire commenced at 1:20 A. M. and spread over the entire block before the Salem fire engines were applied for, and the Metropolitan Hotel was burned to the ground. Soon after the fire broke out, the wind arose and caused it to spread in all directions, so that when the Salem fire department arrived, seven blocks had been consumed. They stopped the further progress of the fire eastward, but when all available assistance had arrived there were only seven engines to subdue a fire half a mile in length and a quarter of a mile wide.

BOSTON, August 2.

The Board of Underwriters, today, estimate the total loss by the East Boston fire at three hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The salvage will be an average of twenty per cent. Wills, Edmands & Co., informed me today that their loss, instead of fifty thousand, is less than twenty-five thousand, and their insurance twenty-eight thousand dollars. The companies will take the goods and pay the total loss. Silsbee & Richardson say that instead of one hundred and fifty thousand worth of lumber, they have only fifty-five thousand worth of stock, which is insured dollar for dollar, and they only withhold the names of the companies at the request of the underwriters, who do not wish it known in what part of the salvage they are interested.

LONDON, August 2. A dreadful accident occurred today on the Northwestern Railroad, near Wigan, to the Scotch tourist express train from London. Twelve persons were instantly killed and thirty wounded. Among the killed is Sir John Anson. Many of the injured persons will die.

BAXTON, August 23. A saw mill at Orono, owned by A. Y. Ring, was destroyed by fire last night; loss $20,000, insured for $10,000. Two mills adjoining, owned by the same party, were damaged to the extent of $200. The European and North American Railway lose about $3,000 by the destruction of a number of cars and a bridge used for running cars to the mills to be loaded. The fire is supposed to have been caused by an incendiary.

LONG BRANCH, August 2. The greatest thunder and lightning storm ever known here passed over the country last evening. Long Branch Hall, a boarding house, was struck by lightning; the Central Hotel was shaken to its foundation, and other damage was done. A waiter at the Allen House, near Long Branch, was killed by lightning. Several horses in the open fields were killed.

ST. LOUIS, August 2. The Board of Health reports 214 deaths for the week; 7 are reported from cholera and 29 from cholera morbus.

INDIANAPOLIS, August 2. Two deaths from cholera occurred Saturday. No deaths today and no new cases reported.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., August 1. Two deaths from cholera are reported among the rolling mill hands, with two cases that will probably terminate fatally.

CINCINNATI, August 2. Four deaths from cholera, one from cholera morbus and three from cholera infantum were reported at Dayton and vicinity during the week.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., August 2. Thirteen deaths from cholera are reported at Carmi, Ill., since the appearance of the disease. Two deaths are reported from Wabash, and there was one death in this city today.

Sale of Valuable Oil Paintings.

The Academy of Music was thrown open to the public this morning for the inspection of the best collection of pictures we have ever seen together in this city, and from the many meritorious pictures to be found there we predict a very large attendance on the sale, which commences next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and will be conducted by Francis Stanhope. These pictures include both foreign and home scenes and are from the easels of artists who have acquired either a European or an American reputation and in some cases both. They cover both landscape and animal life, and also supplying many instances of happy treatment of still life subjects. The collection is a notable one, inasmuch as it embraces the works of many artists and almost in every case their best productions.

Our citizens are most respectfully invited to view the collection at the Academy on Monday and Tuesday from 9 o'clock A. M. to 10 o'clock P. M. and on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock the entire collection will be disposed of at auction by Francis Stanhope. It

The Springfield Republican is considerably democratic for a New England village organ. It believes that where there is fraternity in crime there should be equality in the punishment, and condemns the imprisonment of a lot of immoral girls and the running home, with kindly injunctions, of the equally immoral boys and men found in their company. This journal actually wonders that an official with a spark of manhood could boast of "bagging" the female criminals and of leading millionaire youths to go home, unvexed by the tedium of lockup and by the disgrace of seeing their names in the police court lists of the public prints. And the editor of the Republican is still at large! What are we coming to?

Notice.

Mr. Abraham having sold his block and on account of bad health decided to give up business, will in a short time sell by auction at the Academy of Music his most rare and valuable collection of Chinese and Japanese goods, the largest and most magnificent stock ever before brought to Newport. The goods are open for private sale at his present store until further notice. Every article in the store is reduced to an extraordinary low price. Those who have known Mr. Abraham for so many years in Newport have no doubt all confidence in his statement. All are invited to examine this most beautiful apartment, and many rare curiosities are to be found among the above that cannot at present be purchased elsewhere.

Nantucket Epitaphs.

Before leaving Nantucket, it was necessary, of course, to visit the different cemeteries, of which almost every Christian denomination has one. Except the Friends' burying-ground, with its unmarked graves, all furnish their full proportion of curious epitaphs. Here are two or three. One laconic inscription reads thus:

"Father gorn home!"

The grammar of the second is not perfect:

"As you pass by, pray cast an eye,
For as you are, so once was I.
As I am now, so you must be;
Prepare for death and follow me."

But we doubt whether "could Ireland" itself can surpass the following blundering verses over the tomb in which one not over bright genius intended that his wife should rest. It is to be found in the "South" burying ground. His wife's relations, thinking it only right that after supporting her, and probably the husband too, during their entire married life, they should have the choice of her last place of repose, had insisted upon laying her remains in the "North" grounds. Which state of affairs the widower thus records:—

"Here lies the body of my wife.
Though very dear, she's not laid here.
Some private grief was her disease,
Laid to the North, her friends to please."

Scribner's for August.

Wood Ashes.

A correspondent of the Iowa Homestead finds wood ashes, after fifteen years' use, to be worth a dollar per bushel for dressing fruit-trees. Some years ago a nurseryman of Ontario County, New York, informed us that a good dressing of ashes had doubled the growth of his young pear-trees, as compared with the growth of trees without the ashes. Others have made as favorable reports. Yet the results vary in different localities and soils. We have applied ashes to young peach-trees in the same way precisely as the nurseryman just stated, with no visible result. While, therefore, they are generally more or less useful, the benefit must be determined by trial in each locality.

Diamond Spectacles.

TRADE MARK

THESE SPECTACLES are manufactured from "MINUTE CRYSTAL PEBBLES" melted together, and are called Diamond on account of their hardness and brilliancy. It is well known that spectacles made from Pebbles are very superior to those made from glass, because they are free from imperfections, the ray, because of their polar structure. Having been tested with the polarizing apparatus, the diamond lenses have been found to admit of no imperfect lens, being free from any other pebbles. They are ground with great accuracy, are free from moulds and distortion, and produce a sharpness and distinctness of vision not before attained by any spectacles.

Manufactured by the Spencer Optical Manufacturing Company, New York. For sale by responsible agents in every city in the Union. H. A. HEATH & CO., Jewelers and Opticians, sole Agents for Newport, R. I., from whom they can only be obtained. Any pebbles resembling them are only imitations. Do not buy any unless you see the trade mark
